

Priority Named to CNBC's List of World's Top Fintech Companies for Third Consecutive Year

July 16, 2025

ALPHARETTA, Ga.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jul. 16, 2025-- Priority, the payments and banking solution that streamlines collecting, storing, lending and sending money to unlock revenue opportunities, today announced it has been named to the 2025 CNBC/Statista list of the World's Top Fintech Companies.

This marks the third consecutive year Priority has earned a spot on the global ranking, which highlights the most innovative and influential players in financial technology.

The CNBC/Statista list of the World's Top Fintech Companies recognizes standout fintech firms across eight sectors, including Payments, Neobanking, and Digital Assets. CNBC and Statista evaluated more than 2,000 fintechs worldwide using a mix of public data and company submissions, assessing metrics like revenue, user growth, and funding. Priority was recognized in the Payments category.

Late last year, Priority was also named #45 on Forbes list of America's Most Successful Small-Cap Companies, a ranking based on growth in revenue, earnings, and stock performance.

"Priority's sustained recognition as a global fintech leader reflects the strength of our native technology platform and the value we deliver across the financial ecosystem," said CEO Tom Priore. "Our teams continue to drive real solutions that help businesses manage payments, automate payables, and optimize cash flow."
