"Ranjana is exceptionally qualified for this role and in many ways her promotion recognizes the pivotal role she has already played," said Tom Priore, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Priority. "She most recently served as Executive Vice President of Corporate Development, successfully leading all of Priority's transaction activity since the company's inception, including our 2018 public offering. She is a change agent and a strategist and her relentless focus and keen ability to achieve operational excellence is what makes this promotion a natural progression for Ranjana in her career, as well as for Priority."

With over 18 years of experience in banking and payments, Ram has worked with nearly every aspect of Priority's business, including payment operations in both SMB and B2B payments business units. Prior to her tenure at Priority, Ram worked at Institutional Credit Partners and at Credit Suisse focused on financial analysis, investment banking and structured credit securitizations. Ram is a CFA charterholder and graduate of the University of Michigan.
